COPERNICUS: In Prague (NEVERMORE)

... live at Salvie Stadium in Czechoslovakia on 6/17/89 before 9,000 bewildered could-be-Ozzy-Youth, this just might be the historical document you want to keep around the house to remember the fall of the Communist Party by. Cope's tour of the East must have been the key, instrumental occurrence that broke down the barriers. Seeing him scowling out "Nothing Exists!" over a 25-foot video screen in front of a Tin Machine lookalike band, showing off one of the best hat assortments this side of Chicago, & blowing the fuck out of a 8-foot plastic "horn" was simply too inspirational. Seeing this will bring tears to your eyes as you reminisce lost times and march out into your backyard to blow up your shed. ($30 pp., Box 170150, Brooklyn, NY 11217) —Jimmy
