Copernicus

No Borderline

(CD, 1993, Nevermore, Art rock)

I've heard of this man for years, but I've never heard his music. Copernicus is a true lyricist. His songs seem to focus more on what is being said than on melodies. Copernicus delivers his clever wordplay with urgent screams and howls, sending chills down the spine of the listener as odd music flows by in the background. This is art rock in the very best sense of the word. You can listen to it or it can be background music. Different to say the least, No Borderline for me is a bizarre introduction to an artist I should have heard before now! It'd be hard to compare this to anything. D.W.S.
